A SINKING SHIP - THE INFANT BAPTISM SAGA: The Roman Catholic church is in disarray. Its inside secrets are being exposed and the results aren't pretty. The 111th pope just resigned his post and the 112th pope, in an unpopelike gesture, just threw up his hands and asked a fawnng audience, "Who am I to judge?" So with popes resigning and emerging and leaving all kinds of clues for members to mull over, it leaves one wondering--am I in? or am I farther out than ever? For those who have been sexually abused, they are finally seeing some justice--but can anything pay for decades of dark thoughts of revenge hidden in closet moments? Add to this the history of persecution of Christians that don't belong to the Catholic church and one begins to see a Muslim-like militia begin to evolve. Nor are the Jews any safer. Their long history of fleeing from the long arm of the Roman Catholic church leaven one heartbroken for them and their families. The author, in her book, "Infant Baptism - Life or Death?" has driven the holes in the coffin of infant baptism dogma, but now she exposes the fact that the Roman Catholic church and (and later, leaders of the early Protestant movement including Martin Luther) had millions of Christians murdered because they would practice infant baptism. In this book, the author brings to light the sordid fact that these same churches tried to bring the dreaded Inquisition into the early colonies of the United States of America but were stopped by James Madison's efforts when 'separation of church and state' became an Amendment to the American Constitution.
